MESSAGE FROM THE MANAGEMENT

Dear Madam,
Dear Sir,
Dear Friends of Children’s Rights!

In 2019 we commemorated the 30th anniversary of the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC). It was wonderful to see the multitude of events celebrating this document that has changed outcomes for children over the past three decades.

The CRC is being progressively implemented around the world. Year after year, practitioners, institutions, academics and policy-makers are drawing on experience and pilot projects to refine ideas about better ways to take care of children, but also about how to give them the opportunity to fully participate as future citizens. It is clear that respect for their rights, and changes to professional practices, are powerful drivers in making children aware of the role they can play. They demonstrate motivation to exercise their responsibilities as well as their rights, and they are setting an example as agents of change in a world where interdependence is at the heart of personal and professional relationships and systems.

For the International Institute for the Rights of the Child (IDE), 2019 was a busy and exciting year, focused on restructuring of the organisation and on thematic and methodological alignment of all its activities. The aim is to facilitate communication and fundraising, and to make the best use of the human resources and expertise available to us.

At the heart of this process, the Institute is committed to continuing its highly successful international programmes in West Africa and Latin America, while also working on practical tools to ensure completeness and longevity of the professional courses it provides. Also noteworthy is the expansion in its range of expertise and activities, for example in training key actors in Burkina Faso in mediation for minors in conflict and in contact with the law, or in addressing protection issues in civil litigation in French-speaking Switzerland.

Reflection has also led the Institute to address the theme of children’s rights to health, an interesting topic that cuts across many of their other rights and encompasses numerous issues in relation to physical, mental, social and environmental health. This area of work also led to the IDE taking the first steps in 2019 towards developing an expert hub on emerging issues in children’s rights, particularly in relation to the development of new digital technologies. This new specialism will be rolled out in 2020, through conferences and events run in conjunction with public service actors, and through the IDE’s educational materials.

In 2019, action was also started on consolidating the finances of the IDE, which will be completed in the course of 2020 and will determine its new areas of activity.

Once again, we have been able to count on the support of numerous bodies, which the team and Trustees of the IDE would like to thank for meeting the challenge of sustaining the organisation and increasing its visibility and activity both in Switzerland and abroad.
• Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC)
• Swiss Federal Department of Foreign Affairs (FDFA)
• Swiss Federal Social Insurance Office (FSIO)
• Canton of Valais
• City of Sion
• Loterie Romande – Conference of Presidents of the distributing bodies of the Loterie Romande and Valais Delegation for the Loterie Romande
• The many contributors to the educational fact sheets.

Cilgia Caratsch
Directrice ad interim
The International Institute for the Rights of the Child (IDE) is:

- A recognised training centre in children’s rights, for all types of professionals working with or for children (programmes and courses in Switzerland and abroad).
- A foundation under Swiss private law delivering numerous awareness-raising activities to promote children’s rights and ensure application of the Convention on the Rights of the Child.
- A scientific hub with unique expertise, approached by many expert networks and alliances working on children’s rights.

CENTRE OF COMPETENCE

- QUALITY EDUCATION IN CHILDREN’S RIGHTS
- RAISE AWARENESS
- PROFESSIONALS CHILDREN THE PUBLIC
- ONLINE IN SWITZERLAND ABROAD
- ACT FOR CHILDREN
TRAINING FOR PROFESSIONALS

As a centre of competence in the rights of the child, the IDE is active:

- in Switzerland
- abroad

It offers the following types of training:

- academic
- non-academic

The Institute provides training in children’s rights for all types of professionals working with or for children.

ACADEMIC TRAINING IN SWITZERLAND

In Switzerland in 2019, the IDE contributed to training in Sion for around 70 students and professionals studying for degrees from the University of Geneva (UNIGE), through provision of the following courses:

Interdisciplinary Master’s Degree in Children’s Rights (MIDE)

The 12th round of the MIDE, offered by the Centre for Children’s Rights Studies at the University of Geneva (CIDE), started in September 2019 with 53 students and will run until February 2021. The IDE provides training courses on children’s right to be heard, and on children’s rights actors in Switzerland.

Master of Advanced Studies (MAS) in Children’s Rights

This training is offered by the CIDE, in collaboration with the IDE, to postgraduate professionals with a role or responsibilities in the field of children’s rights. Over a dozen students are enrolled in the 2019-2020 year.

Certificate of Advanced Studies (CAS) in Children’s Rights

The CAS in Children’s Rights (February 2019 to December 2020), also run by the CIDE in collaboration with the IDE since 2015, offers the opportunity to study just two of the modules of the MAS in Children’s Rights. This training is worth 12 European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System (ECTS) credits. It is primarily designed for individuals with a bachelor’s degree who have a role or responsibilities in the field of children’s rights. Five students enrolled in the 2019-2020 class.

The Institut Universitaire Kurt Bösch (IUKB) hosts staff and students from the University of Lausanne, the University of Geneva and the International Institute for the Rights of the Child.
ACADEMIC TRAINING ABROAD

In 2019, new rounds of two academic training courses abroad took place, in West Africa and Latin America respectively. There has been discussion about stepping up local promotion of both courses, to increase the number of students enrolling. Quality and recognition of the degrees is assured through the partnership with UNIGE and with local universities, within specific academic frameworks.

West Africa

In Senegal, the IDE has completed the first round of the Certificate of Advanced Studies in Child Protection and Children’s Rights, the result of collaboration between the Institute of Human Rights and Peace at Cheikh Anta Diop University in Dakar (UCAD), CIDE and the IDE. It was delivered to 17 professionals from all walks of life working with and for children in five countries of West Africa, of whom 13 passed the course. The certificate award ceremony is expected to take place in 2020.

The second round started in October 2019, with the involvement of two members of the United Nations Committee on the Rights of the Child, Ms. Aissatou Sidikou and Prof Philip Jaffé. It attracted considerable interest from 34 professionals in the field, from 11 countries in West and Central Africa. The curriculum comprises three modules run in Dakar and one online: Introduction to the rights of the child; Child protection in a local context – which looks at children in relation to both the family and the law; Children’s rights and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) – which looks more specifically at children’s mobility and the right to good health; and Methodology – which prepares participants for writing a dissertation. This course will finish in September 2020.

Participants in the second round of the CAS in Child Protection and Children’s Rights, representing 11 countries in the sub-region.
Latin America
The second round of the CAS in Juvenile Justice, which has five modules and is taught in Spanish, finished in August 2019. It was attended by 29 students, from 20 countries of Latin America, who are involved in the rights of children in conflict with the law, child victims and child witnesses (police, prosecutors, judges, lawyers, institutional and prison staff, educators, psychologists, doctors, criminologists, migration experts and academics).

There are already over 100 students enrolled for 2020, thanks in particular to coordination and sustained promotional efforts in Colombia. Entirely accessible online, the course enables participants to complement their career with university-level professional development giving them a better understanding of international and regional standards and the relevance to their daily work. A module presenting a biopsychosocial model will provide a new basis for discussion about the children concerned, and will help participants to understand the complexity of their life journeys. Other features of this CAS include a focus on implementation of measures and the short- and long-term impact of official decisions on children, the creation of an informal regional network of professionals, and access to many experts of world renown.

NON-ACADEMIC ONLINE TRAINING
MOOC in the rights of the child for the Horn of Africa
In 2019, the IDE developed a massive open online course (MOOC) for the Horn of Africa: Through the Horn of Africa: Take Action for the Rights of the Child. This provides an introduction to children’s rights to meet the training needs of childcare professionals in a particularly neglected region of the world. Instability has made it difficult to access professionals in the region, but the MOOC was made possible through the involvement of members of the Committee on the Rights of the Child and international experts, and thanks to audiovisual materials from NGOs presenting experiences from neighbouring countries. The course notes were compiled from the numerous preparatory studies to commemorate the 30th anniversary of the CRC. As a result, participants were provided with practical tools reflecting the most up-to-date observations on the ground.
BESPOKE TRAINING

As a centre of excellence in children’s rights, the IDE is regularly approached by partners, governments and institutions to set up training programmes tailored to their needs. The IDE uses its own methodology for this, which is based on communicating knowledge, tools and experience within interdisciplinary groups, bridging the gap between academia and work on the ground.

Juvenile Justice in Senegal

In 2019, the IDE started working on a guide for trainers, designed for those who had attended the Juvenile Justice Training for Trainers. This programme, which has been run in collaboration with the Judiciary Training Centre and the Swiss Embassy in Dakar since 2012, is aimed at all professionals in the juvenile justice system in Senegal. The guide aims to consolidate knowledge and learning outcomes and to act as a tool for peer training, with a focus on practical teaching aids. It recaps on all the topics on juvenile justice, with an emphasis on restorative justice. The guide will be distributed to all alumni of the Juvenile Justice Training for Trainers in 2020.

Burkina Faso

The IDE developed a four-day training course for Terre des Hommes, which was provided to Burkina Fasso’s 45 traditional leaders from 25 to 29 November. This served as a follow-up to the round table held in December 2018 in Grand-Bassam, Ivory Coast, which brought together actors from the official and traditional legal systems in West Africa to discuss approaches to mediation for children, in both criminal and civil cases. This training was the final stage of an access to justice project by Terre des Hommes, which aimed to improve linkage between formal and traditional justice systems to assist children in conflict with the law. By focusing on the place of the child in legal proceedings and mediation, the training greatly increased awareness of issues around children’s involvement in procedures that determine their lives. A one-day workshop brought professionals from the prosecution and formal justice system together with mediators, to discuss specific measures that could aid cooperation with traditional leaders and increase recognition of the practice among families.

AWARENESS RAISING

30TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE CRC AND CHILDREN’S PARTICIPATION

The IDE’s awareness-raising activities were linked in with celebrations of the 30th anniversary of the CRC, and saw the introduction or strengthening of several partnerships.

Canton of Valais: 30-50 Anniversary Caravan

2019 marked the 50th anniversary of the Mobile Education Office (OEI) for the Canton of Valais, which provides early special education at home for children aged 0-6 years with disabilities. The realisation that this coincided with the 30th anniversary of the CRC inspired a partnership with the Canton of Valais to organise an “Anniversary Caravan”. Launched at a press conference on 20 November 2018, the caravan symbolically ascended the Rhône, with six key stop-off points at Monthey (Castalie), Martigny (FOVAHM Boutique-Hôtel and City), Sion (Radiobus, Observatoire sédunois de la jeunesse, Tipi Aventure), Saviese (Schools), Naters (World Nature Forum) and a final event open to all at Sierre (School of Social Work) on 20 November 2019. In each of these locations, various events focusing on children’s inclusion highlighted 50 years of achievements in Valais in integrating children with disabilities, explored the current needs of the professionals, parents and children concerned, and resulted in a commitment to vulnerable children of all ages which was summed up in a document addressed to the authorities. The youth delegate for the Canton of Valais was also involved in the project, as the Caravan project wanted to generate youth-led ideas and initiatives. For more information, see: www.caravane30-50.ch

This major project led to an action plan for the canton, which was delivered to the President of the Grand Council of Valais and the Minister for the Economy and Training, calling for early inclusion and easier integration of children of all ages into service provision. This action plan also emphasises the need to introduce policy for children and young people that reflects the cross-cutting nature of their development, and offers a central gateway to access information and resources. Ultimately, more needs to be done to develop participation by children and young people, both in expressing their needs and views in decision-making processes affecting their lives, and in terms of their inclusion in public initiatives.

Meeting different audiences in the city of Sion

The IDE was involved in several events and discussions held in the city of Sion to raise awareness of children’s rights among various audiences during the anniversary year of the CRC. For example, the Protestant parish of Sion pensioners’ club received a presentation on children’s rights, the Institut de Don Bosco (a provider of special needs education) hosted the presenter Jean-Marc Richard from Radio Télévision Suisse (RTS) for a broadcast of the radio show “La ligne de coeur”, and children with special needs from the Institut Saint Agnès took part in a radio show.

Geneva: A series of conferences in conjunction with the Brocher Foundation

In 2019, the IDE launched a new partnership with the Brocher Foundation, whose purpose is to host scientists and experts specialising in the ethical, legal and social implications of the development of medical research and biotechnologies.

As part of the celebrations of the 30th anniversary of the CRC, the Brocher Foundation, UNICE, the International Social Service (ISS) and the IDE worked together to run a series of events around children’s rights and health. A programme of eight lectures, entitled “Enfant, Éthique et Santé” (Children, Ethics and Health), was attended by around 700 people. It covered a range of topics demonstrating the cross-cutting nature of children’s rights and health.

The initiative also included a major symposium led by the ISS and the IDE: “Children’s Rights in the Age of Biotechnology”. This event brought together around 60 experts from a variety of backgrounds to discuss an emerging children’s rights issue. It shone light on the drafting of an international framework of principles for worldwide regulation of the practice of surrogacy, which is being coordinated by the ISS on the initiative of the UN Special Rapporteur on the Sale and Sexual Exploitation of Children.

30 Years of Children’s Rights

The partnership with UNICE enabled the IDE to support the association 30 Years of Children’s Rights in delivering a wide range of activities in Geneva to mark the anniversary of the CRC, in particular a three-day conference held at the United Nations from 18 to 20 November 2019. This was an opportunity for a broad international community to address the issue of the expert voice of children, and to report on current research into implementation of the 1989 Convention.

Notably, the symposium on children’s rights in the age of biotechnology with the Brocher Foundation and the ISS was followed by a presentation on 19 November by individuals born through surrogacy or genetic donation, to raise awareness of reproductive health issues among the United Nations audience. The association also achieved high public visibility in Geneva and made thousands of people aware of children’s rights, through displaying work by young people at the United Nations, UNICE, the Place des Nations and on the waterfront in Geneva.
Educational materials

The educational fact sheet written annually for teachers of three school year groups throughout Switzerland focused in 2019 on young people’s active citizenship. This project is being delivered in partnership with éducation21. To maximise the value of the educational materials produced, the IDE has taken the first steps towards using and/or distributing the fact sheets through other IDE projects or partner organisations (e.g. the 30-50 Caravan project).

In 2019, there was a significant increase in downloads of the fact sheets in German and Italian-speaking regions. The IDE is going to build on the interest from teachers in German-speaking Switzerland and Ticino through further promotion in these regions in 2020. This will mainly take the form of a dissemination campaign and the reproduction of previous IDE and éducation21 fact sheets on a new website. The decrease in the number of French-speaking users in 2019 is largely due to the narrower subject compared to the previous year, which was on climate change.

Raising awareness about care for unaccompanied minors

Appartenances Lausanne, a service providing social and psychological support to migrants and/or people in need, runs annual professional development days for a wide and diverse network of professionals. In 2019, Appartenances hosted the IDE and the Alliance for the Rights of Migrant Children (ADEM) for a morning addressing the issue of the rights of unaccompanied minors in their care.

The Swiss Refugee Council (SRC), which specialises in the right to asylum, provides training for professionals and for adults and young people, in order to raise broad public awareness of issues around exile, asylum and integration. The IDE contributed for a morning to a training session on listening to children, held at the State Secretariat for Migration’s federal asylum centre in Boudry (Neuchâtel). This was directed at “trusted representatives” who have the role of supporting unaccompanied minors through the asylum process.
THINK TANK: DEVELOPING AN EXPERT HUB

The work on thematic alignment of the IDE’s activities, including the focus on children’s rights to health, also incorporates a new project addressing emerging children’s rights issues – Think Tank. As part of this project, in 2019 the IDE produced an expert report on children’s rights to health, with updates on current research and international discussions on this topic. The report included two specific themes – children’s rights in the digital age, and rare diseases – because of links with other projects (e.g. preparation for the conference on the same theme in May 2020, and synergies with the work of the Committee on the Rights of the Child).

MAY CONFERENCE: CHILDREN’S RIGHTS AND RELIGIOUS BELIEFS

Every year, the IDE helps to organise the CIDE annual international conference on a specific children’s rights topic. In 2019, the topic was: “Children’s Rights and Religious Beliefs: Autonomy, Education, Tradition”. The choice of this subject, which is rarely addressed in academic and professional circles, provided an opportunity to strengthen dialogue and knowledge about children’s rights to freedom of religion, and to highlight best practices in situations where there is tension between the parents’ right to religious education and the child’s right to self-determination.

Also in 2019, the steering committee prepared publication of the papers from the previous year’s conference, on the theme of corporal punishment. “To Better Protect Children in Switzerland: Ban All Corporal Punishment?” provides a multidisciplinary exploration of the issue and allows the many professionals who took part in the conference to review the content of the discussions.

CHILD RIGHTS NETWORK SWITZERLAND (RSDE)

The RSDE, of which the IDE is a founding member, has started work on the periodic report on Switzerland by the Committee on the Rights of the Child, which will take place in 2021. On 20 November 2018, it published, for the second consecutive year, an annual review of Switzerland’s implementation of the recommendations made to it by the Committee on the Rights of the Child (Concluding Observations). In 2019, it helped to identify the outstanding issues in Switzerland (List of Issues).

In 2019, the RSDE celebrated its 10th anniversary and the 30th anniversary of the CRC. To mark these milestones, it held a symposium on 27 March 2019 in which the IDE was involved, and which brought together over 60 individuals. Lastly, the IDE is co-leading a working group for production of the 2020 NGO report to the Committee on the Rights of the Child.

SARAH OBERSON FOUNDATION

The partnership with the Sarah Oberson Foundation continued with the IDE 2018 educational fact sheets being issued and distributed during sessions on children’s rights and the environment, delivered in 27 lower secondary schools in... the city of Sion by a team of facilitators trained by the Foundation. In addition, the fact sheet on children’s active citizenship was distributed to 13 teachers at the regional lower secondary school of Collines de Sion.
The year 2019 will have been one of change for the IDE, and any change entails profound reflection about new directions. While these new directions have been considered, discussed and then embarked upon within an existing framework, they will be rolled out and made more evident in the 2020 programme, in synergy with the activities of other child protection and children’s rights organisations in Switzerland with which the IDE would like to strengthen collaboration.

The International Institute for the Rights of the Child wishes to express its thanks to Paola Riva Gapany, recruited as assistant to the Director Jean Zermatten on 1 June 2000, then appointed Director herself on 1 January 2015. The enthusiasm she shared with the whole team, and her unfailing commitment to the cause of children’s rights, have played a key role in the history of the IDE. We would like to express here our deep gratitude for her valuable and dedicated services to the Institute over nearly two decades.
PERSONNEL

The decision to restructure taken by the new Board of Trustees in 2018 resulted in a reduction in the team from the second quarter of 2019, with the main organisational roles covered by the following personnel in 2019.

- Paola Riva Gapany, Director (80%) until 31 August 2019
- Cilgia Caratsch, Interim Director until November 2019; Programme Director from November 2019
- Stephen Langton, Director from November 2019
- Alexandra Prince, Coordinator (100%)
- Aline Sermet, Senior Scientific Advisor (80%)
- Johanna Le Berre, Accountant (70%)
- Clara Balestra, Project Manager for Educational Materials (20%) until 28 February 2019
- Livia Bouvier, Project Officer for Distance Learning - Horn of Africa (60%) until 31 March 2019
